RARE WHITE TIGERS MAKE THEIR NEW HOME AT SIX FLAGS GREAT ADVENTURE SAFARI

Jackson, N.J. -- Six Flags Great Adventure Safari opened for the season with an all-new, breathtaking Safari exhibit -- four beautiful white Bengal tigers.

White tigers, which originated in India, weigh about 100 lbs. more than ordinary orange Bengal tigers and are quite rare. In fact, the park's new white tigers represent four of only 200 white tigers known to exist in the world.

According to researchers, white tigers are not albinos and are not a naturally occurring animal in the wild. The white tigers' coats result from a genetic trait that is passed down from tiger to tiger.

Noel, Romulus, Sakura and Babar boast beautiful white coats with ash-colored stripes and startling ice-blue eyes. The tigers -- two males and two females -- range from three to five years old. Guests can observe the white tigers in their newly themed habitat in the Tiger Section of the Safari.
